

GRADUATE ADMISSION

A viable applicant must possess, minimally, a baccalaureate degree or the equivalent from a regionally accredited, recognized college or university at the time of matriculation. The prerequisite expected by a discipline is the equivalent of an undergraduate area of concentration as understood at Saint Louis University: a sequence of eighteen or more credits of upper-division (advanced undergraduate) courses. In disciplines where no corresponding undergraduate major exists, the prerequisite requirement may be expressed in an alternative manner. Decisions regarding acceptance into a program will not be made on the basis of the length of the degree program students have completed, but rather on the applicant's preparation to pursue post-baccalaureate work in the discipline.

Policies and Procedures

Applicants must adhere to all pertinent policies and procedures throughout the admission process.

- Admission Decisions (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/admission-decisions>)
- Admission Procedures (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/admission-procedures>)
- Admission Types (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/admission-types>)
- English Language Proficiency (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/english-language-proficiency>)
- International Applicants (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/international-applicants>)
- Readmission (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/readmission>)
- Reapplication (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/reapplication>)
- Transfer Credit (<http://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/graduate/transfer-credit>)