American Studies is the study of American society and cultures in all their diversity. What sets this field apart from other academic disciplines is its interdisciplinary approach to analyzing the past and the present, combining the study of history, literature, art and visual culture, and the material world. The discipline is based on the idea that the culture around us — film, food, TV, buildings, fiction and the landscape — is as essential for understanding the world as written historical texts.

Saint Louis University’s American studies curriculum has the flexibility for students to pursue their own focused interests, and to connect their work with scholarly communities and public institutions. The Department of American Studies maintains a strong commitment to the sound, ethical and broad professional development of every student.

American studies students have access to excellent library and computer facilities, the extensive audio and visual equipment of the Instructional Media Center, training and certification by the Reinert Center for Teaching Excellence, and grant and scholarship assistance from the Office of Research Services.

Curriculum Overview
The Doctor of Philosophy is the terminal research degree in American studies. A total of 45 credits of coursework beyond the B.A. degree, plus 12 credits of dissertation writing, is required. Students with M.A. degrees may be able to count up to 18 credits of their previous relevant coursework.

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities
Graduate students benefit from the rich archival and institutional resources available in St. Louis itself, including relationships with sites such as the Missouri Historical Society, Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, Circuit Court Records Project, Pulitzer Foundation for the Arts, Sheldon Galleries, Contemporary Art Museum, Saint Louis Art Museum, Missouri Botanical Garden and Historic Landmarks Association.

Careers
Graduates have gone on to careers in libraries, museum administration and public humanities, as well as educational administration, university teaching or study of the law.

Admission Requirements
Undergraduate degree or equivalent in a humanities or social science area; additional prerequisite work may be required at the discretion of the department. Students with relevant M.A. degrees may transfer some credits, but all Ph.D. students will receive an M.A. as well.

Standardized test scores are considered as well as GPA and TOEFL (if applicable).

Non-Course Requirements

Qualifying Exam
At the end of the second semester of coursework, students will take a three-hour qualifying exam to demonstrate the growing knowledge of the field. The exam consists of essay questions provided by American studies course instructors. Students must answer two of the questions: one covering material from ASTD 5000 Perspectives in American Studies (3 cr), and the other chosen from questions about materials covered classes taken during the first-year semester when ASTD 5000 Perspectives in American Studies (3 cr) was not offered.

Written Exam
After completing the qualifying exam, students will create a three-person committee (one chair and two additional faculty readers). Working closely with the committee members, students will develop two papers: one literature review and one portfolio paper.

Literature Review
The literature review is based in extensive reading in three subject areas. The portfolio paper is generally a revised and expanded version of a seminar paper, written as a publishable article. Both should be connected to the area of future dissertation research and demonstrate extensive knowledge in the student’s fields.

Oral Exam
After the three-person committee has accepted final drafts of the written exam, students will schedule a 90-minute oral exam. In general, full-time students aim to take their oral exams at the end of their third year. Funded students must complete the comprehensive exam within one calendar year of completing coursework.

Continuation Standards
Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.00 in all graduate/professional courses.

Roadmap
Roadmaps are recommended semester-by-semester plans of study for programs and assume full-time enrollment unless otherwise noted.

Courses and milestones designated as critical (marked with !) must be completed in the semester listed to ensure a timely graduation. Transfer credit may change the roadmap.

This roadmap should not be used in the place of regular academic advising appointments. All students are encouraged to meet with their advisor/mentor each semester. Requirements, course availability and sequencing are subject to change.

1 Over their coursework, students must take at least two 5000 level (reading) and two 6000 level (research) seminars. Up to two courses outside of the department may be substituted for ASTD seminars, with the approval of the advisor and Grad Coordinator.

2 Last week of classes or during Exam Week.

3 Department deadlines for spring are announced each fall.

4 Required (must take when offered in 2nd or 3rd year)

5 Required (must take 6100 in 3rd or 4th year).

6 These two required courses are offered alternate spring semesters.

Oral Exams must be completed within two semesters of completing coursework, not including ASTD 6100 Dissertation Colloquium (3 cr) which is sometimes taken after orals.

Program Notes: Students can, but are not required to use the summers to take their foreign language requirement, taken an outside course or pursue an internship for credit, or work on their oral exams.
