

COMMUNICATION, M.A.

Saint Louis University's master's program in communication is designed to teach students to be conscientious thinkers and leaders who communicate effectively in a diverse world and who understand the social implications of media and communication technology. Through their coursework, our communication M.A. students develop fluency in communication theory that can be used to solve practical problems. Students learn to ask thoughtful questions and find engaging answers by building the skill sets necessary to develop research protocols, evaluate messages, analyze data and share these findings with various stakeholders.

Coursework options allow students to deepen their understanding of communication theory and research within a variety of areas of study, including:

- Health communication
- Intercultural communication
- Interpersonal communication
- Organizational communication
- Media studies
- Rhetoric and public dialogue
- Social justice communication
- Strategic communication

Curriculum Overview

There are three required courses in the 30-credit degree. Beyond that, communication students are allowed to develop a personally tailored program of study that fits their individual goals and interests. Communication students have three options for completing the Master of Arts degree:

- Applied project
- Comprehensive exams
- Thesis

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities

Working professionals and those seeking careers as organizational practitioners may be more attracted to the applied project or the comprehensive exam degree completion options, while students anticipating research-based careers or who might progress to doctoral programs should consider the thesis degree completion option.

Careers

SLU's communication program prepares students for greater responsibilities in a range of professions including advertising, corporate communications, higher education, human resources, journalism, politics, public relations, research and training and development.

Recent graduates work for companies such as Bayer, the Dallas Stars, Federal Reserve Bank of Saint Louis, Maritz, the National Catholic Reporter, National Equity Fund, Inc. and SLU. In addition, Saint Louis University's Department of Communication (<https://www.slu.edu/arts-and-sciences/communication/>) has an excellent track record of placing graduates in strong Ph.D. programs for students who want to continue their graduate work in communication.

Admission Requirements

An undergraduate communication degree or a degree in a related discipline with possible prerequisites in communication research is required.

There is no minimum GPA requirement. Successful applicants typically have an overall GPA of 3.0 or above.

GRE scores are not required but may be submitted to strengthen an application.

Applicants whose records vary from these guidelines may be admitted based upon fit with the program, past experiences or letters of recommendation.

Application Requirements

- Application form
- Three letters of recommendation
- Transcript(s)
- Résumé
- Statement of purpose (see below)

The statement of purpose should be about 400-600 words in length. An effective statement of purpose will articulate why a candidate wants to pursue an M.A. in communication, why the candidate is particularly interested in the M.A. program at Saint Louis University (SLU), as well as the candidate's goals for study in the program. We are interested in the content of the purpose statement and the quality of writing demonstrated by applicants. Candidates should discuss the following elements in the statement of purpose:

1. What are your professional or civic goals, and how will an M.A. in communication from SLU help you achieve them? How will the graduate program at SLU support your goals?
2. How have your educational and professional experiences, interests, and civic activities influenced your decision to pursue an M.A. in communication? How has your background prepared you for graduate study and what will you bring to the program?

Requirements for International Students

The communication program is reading and writing intensive. International students who achieve success in the program tend to have IBT TOEFL scores at or above 100/120 Total (25/30 Reading and 25/30 Writing), IELTS scores of 7.5/9 Total (7/9 Reading and 6.5/9 Writing), or DuoLingo scores at or above 130. If the language of instruction of an applicant's post-secondary institution is English, applicants do not need to demonstrate further evidence of English Language proficiency.

All admission policies and requirements for domestic students apply to international students. International students must also meet the following additional requirements:

- Demonstrate English Language Proficiency (<https://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/undergraduate/english-language-proficiency/>)
- Academic records, in English translation, of students who have undertaken postsecondary studies outside the United States must include:
 - Courses taken and/or lectures attended
 - Practical laboratory work

- The maximum and minimum grades attainable
- The grades earned or the results of all end-of-term examinations
- Any honors or degrees received.
- WES and ECE transcripts are accepted but not required.
- In order to be issued an I-20 for your F-1 visa application, students must submit financial documents. Proof of financial support that must include:
 - A letter of financial support from the person(s) or sponsoring agency funding the student's time at Saint Louis University
 - A letter from the sponsor's bank verifying that the funds are available and will be so for the duration of the student's study at the University

Application and Assistantship Application Deadlines

Students who want to be considered for an assistantship must submit their application for admission and an assistantship application by Jan. 31. Find more information about assistantships on our graduate curriculum and funding opportunities page (<https://www.slu.edu/arts-and-sciences/communication/academics/graduate-experience.php>). Students can find the assistantship application in the admission portal (<https://www.slu.edu/admission/graduate/>).

U.S. students not applying for an assistantship who want to be considered for admission must submit their applications by July 1 for the fall semester.

International students not applying for an assistantship who want to be considered for admission must submit their applications by May 1 for the fall semester.

Students interested in applying for admission for the spring semester should contact the graduate program coordinator via email by Sept. 15.
