

POLITICAL SCIENCE, MINOR

To earn a minor in political science at Saint Louis University, students complete six courses with 18 credits of coursework.

In the general minor, students will take three courses in each of the four major subfields of political science (American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, and Political Thought) for a total of nine credits. Students also take three political science electives, for an additional nine credits of coursework.

In the specialized minor, students take three courses from just one of the subfields, as well as nine credits of political science electives.

No more than six credits of transfer credit and no more than three credits of internship can count toward the minor.

Requirements

Students can choose between a general or a specialized minor. No one class can fulfill more than one requirement within the minors.
