

GREEK & LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE, B.A.

Saint Louis University's study of classical languages is designed for students interested in the sources of Western culture who want to improve their language skills and word power. The B.A. in Greek and Latin Language and Literature from SLU provides a firm interdisciplinary foundation for students pursuing a liberal arts education facilitated by knowledge of classical languages and culture. This includes law, medicine, theology, philosophy, medieval and Renaissance studies, political science, communication, mythology, anthropology, psychology, art history, cultural criticism, history of education, literary studies and comparative literature.

Studying Greek or Latin languages and literature provides the undergraduate scholar a unique coherence, depth and breadth, offering variety, flexibility and scope. Classical studies expose students to a vast range of significant personalities, influential writing and wisdom literature. It is the "royal road" (via regia) to important moments, ideas and movements in the cultural history of the Western world.

Curriculum Overview

A focus on Greek or Latin language and literature can complement almost any undergraduate degree. The B.A. emphasizes the study of ancient texts in their original languages. It is often combined with another major, usually art history, biology, English, philosophy or theology. Students studying classical languages enjoy small classes and personalized attention. Students have flexibility in their programs, with many types of tutorials or independent study possible.

Students will be exposed to many significant writers and philosophers and their works.

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities

Saint Louis University encourages students to enhance their academic experiences by studying abroad. Many students of Greek and Latin choose to reside and take Greek and Latin classes in Rome and other Mediterranean cities.

Students have access to SLU's Vatican Film Library, the only collection outside of the Vatican itself, consisting of more than 37,000 works from the Vatican Library, and the Center for Medieval and Renaissance Studies.
