INCLUSIVE PRACTICE, POST-BACCALAUREATE CERTIFICATE

Saint Louis University’s graduate certificate in inclusive practice is designed to provide classroom teachers and educational advocates with tools to support the social-emotional, behavioral and mental health needs of students, particularly students with suspected and/or diagnosed disabilities.

Courses in behavior management, differentiated instruction and mental health literacy focus on responding productively to students in trauma, decreasing educator burnout and engaging in essential forms of self-care. Also, through an innovative site-based coaching model, the certificate in inclusive practice provides a unique opportunity for teachers and other local stakeholders to experience hands-on support for the daily work of teaching.

Curriculum Overview

SLU’s 15-credit-hour post-baccalaureate certificate in inclusive practice consists of four courses representing the following aspects of inclusive teaching: challenging behaviors, mental health literacy, differentiated instruction and systems-level supports for learners with special needs. Students also complete a yearlong, site-based coached practicum accompanied by a professional learning lab held on the SLU campus. Students culminate their learning through a poster presentation at an end-of-semester professional forum.

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities

All courses include site-based application of educational concepts and processes. The on-site coached practicum takes place in the student’s own setting or through a placement arranged in conjunction with the instructor. Through the professional forum, students present results of action research designed to enhance their daily practice and/or spark change in their individual educational context.

Careers

The certificate in inclusive practice is appropriate for classroom teachers across all content areas and grade levels as well as individuals who work with youth in out-of-school educational settings.
