DISABILITY ADMINISTRATION IN HIGHER EDUCATION, POST-BACCALAUREATE CERTIFICATE

Saint Louis University’s graduate certificate program in disability administration in higher education provides a 15-credit credential for student affairs professionals and community organization workers to acquire the knowledge and skills necessary to administer programs required by law and serve the needs of individuals with disabilities.

Curriculum Overview
The 15-credit, five-course program is based on essential topics and includes an overview of disability in higher education, administrative strategies for this specific population, social justice theory as related to disability, media and disability, and universal design in higher education and society.

Two courses are developmental (EDSP 6060 Media and Disability Issues and EDH 6080 Disability Social Justice Theory in Higher Education) and are the first courses students will complete for the certificate. The other three courses can be completed in any order (EDH 6040 Universal Design in Higher Education: Principles and Practices, EDH 6050 Disability in Higher Education & Society, and EDH 6060 Disability Administration in Higher Education).

The courses are delivered in two formats:
- Completely online course for the duration of the semester
- Mostly classroom (face-to-face with online not more than 25% of the allotted time during the semester)

Most classes are after 4 p.m. Central Time, using Skype for Business or Zoom videoconferencing to allow distance students to participate in real-time from anywhere in the world they have internet access.

Social Justice Framework
Our programs are grounded in our Social Justice Framework. Social justice has been a “significant lens” for Jesuits since 1965 and is also vital for higher education and student affairs professionals, educators and community stakeholders. While the definitions of social justice are numerous, David Hollenbach, S.J., wrote that “Social justice concerns institutionalized patterns of mutual action and interdependence that are necessary to bring about the realization of distributive justice.”

In an education setting, distributive justice is the claim that everyone should have access to the public good of education. Toward that end, we strive to find ways to address experiences of systemic injustice, displacing oppressive structures with those that provide for all.

As educators, we understand our particular obligation is to prepare leaders for higher education who will dismantle systems of oppression and help shape colleges and universities that create vital educational spaces for all, with an intentional focus on those who have been targets of bias and injustice. With these goals in mind, our program is informed by the Jesuit, Catholic perspective on social justice and is guided by the Universal Apostolic Preferences adopted by the Society of Jesus in 2019 for the decade ahead.

The Jesuits encourage specific approaches to bring about reconciliation and justice. Our program’s framework is specifically guided by two approaches: “Walking with the Excluded” and “Journeying with Youth” (The Society of Jesus, 2019).

The approach “Walking with the Excluded” guides our program’s framework. Our students are personally and professionally challenged to address both higher education and society’s systemic inequities through an understanding of reconciliation and justice.

The approach “Journeying with Youth” encourages the Jesuit community, including our work in the University and the School of Education, to be open to formation by those who are new to our community or those who are younger, including students, faculty and staff.

As scholars and educators, we aim to co-create a learning environment where students are holistically prepared to:
1. Identify and analyze processes that dehumanize any persons and assist all in collectively and proactively dismantling oppression.
2. Reflect on the socialization that shapes each student and faculty member.
3. Give voice to particular groups’ experiences.
4. Contextualize the history and context that each person brings to our work by incorporating sociopolitical perspectives into dialogue.
5. Reflect upon and ask critical questions regarding the systems, structures, and impact of higher education.

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities
The certificate courses provide fieldwork and research opportunities in existing institutional disability services and practices that incorporate universal design.

Careers
The certificate program prepares students for two broad career areas:
- Postsecondary education administrators, who plan, direct or coordinate research, instructional, student administration and services, and other educational activities at postsecondary institutions, including universities, colleges and junior and community colleges.
- Community and social-service specialists, who plan for and serve individuals with disabilities.

Admission Requirements
Applicants must have a bachelor’s degree in education or a related field.

Continuation Standards
Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.00 in all graduate/professional courses.

Roadmap
Roadmaps are recommended semester-by-semester plans of study for programs and assume full-time enrollment unless otherwise noted.

Courses and milestones designated as critical (marked with !) must be completed in the semester listed to ensure a timely graduation. Transfer credit may change the roadmap.

This roadmap should not be used in the place of regular academic advising appointments. All students are encouraged to meet with their advisor/mentor each semester. Requirements, course availability and sequencing are subject to change.
