Accreditation

The Saint Louis University School of Social Work was established in 1930. Originally accredited by the American Association of Schools of Social Work, the school was admitted as an accredited charter member of the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) when that body was formed in 1952. The M.S.W. program has been continuously accredited since then and the B.S.S.W. program continuously accredited since its development in 1972. The graduate program in applied behavior analysis (ABA) was developed in the school in 2011 and the criminology and criminal justice (CCJ) faculty and programs joined the school in 2012. Re-emerging as an independent academic unit in July 2022, the school offers six undergraduate and graduate degrees and two graduate certificate programs.

Built on an unwavering commitment to social justice and the pursuit of equity, inclusivity and belonging, the school is a leader in integrating education and practice with expert faculty who substantially advance their respective fields and disciplines.

Saint Louis University's School of Social Work is consistently ranked in the top 20% of social work programs nationally by U.S. News & World Report.
