This course will introduce you to the exploration and analysis of attitudes and characteristics of the college student population in context of higher educational institutions in the United States. Theoretical concepts and empirical findings will be examined that help to describe the college student in relation to changing demographics, culture, and development. The intent of the course is to familiarize you with today's higher education setting and strategies for enhancing these environments to maximize student learning and development. Throughout the course, attention will be paid to the impact of learning and development. Throughout the course, attention will be paid to the impact of the campus environment on diverse student populations and a variety of student groups.

EDH 5360 - Student Development Theory II
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course provides a general introduction to identity theory which helps to describe the evolving college student's identity development process in relation to changing demographics and culture. In addition to being introduced to various identity theories, students will have opportunities to apply these theories to practice.

EDH 5400 - Law and Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Exploration and analysis of selected problems involving legal restrictions and/or protections for colleges and universities.

EDH 5470 - Leadership in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course is intended to provide students pursuing a degree in Student Personnel Administration in Higher Education with a background in legal and ethical issues confronted by practicing professionals. A lecture, discussion and problem solving format is used in studying the course material. The course includes a discussion of leadership and ethical principles, selected law cases and their interrelation with the American College Personnel Association Statement of Ethical Principles and Standards.

EDH 5500 - Catholic Higher Education Administration and Leadership
Credit(s): 3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
This course offers an overview of leadership and student affairs administration within Catholic higher education. Through a review of literature, as well as in-class discussions, students will understand the unique aspects of working at a Catholic institution. Students will also critically examine and reflect upon various contemporary issues pertaining to student affairs administration at Catholic colleges and universities. Offered fall and spring.

EDH 5500 - Foundations in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course will introduce theories, patterns, issues, trends in student personnel administration in higher education, functions, and responsibilities of the college student personnel work, including assessment and budgetary processes.

EDH 5600 - Social Justice and the College Student
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Exploration and analysis of attitudes and characteristics of the college student population in context of the institutional climate.

EDH 5650 - Intervention Skills
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course is designed to promote an understanding of strong interpersonal communication skills among student personnel administrators. The course will focus on developing skills necessary for facilitating career and educational decision-making, conflict management, and promoting the development of interpersonal relationships and healthy lifestyle habits. This course also focuses on goal-setting and creating strategies for behavior change, and developing an understanding of the kinds of issues that often affect college students.

EDH 5700 - Assessment and Evaluation in Student Affairs
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of current assessment and evaluation methods in student affairs administration. Topics will include defining and measuring student learning outcomes, assessment processes and designs, and methods for collecting and analyzing assessment data.

EDH 5800 - Foundations in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course will introduce you to the exploration and analysis of attitudes and characteristics of the college student population in context of higher educational institutions in the United States. Theoretical concepts and empirical findings will be examined that help to describe the college student in relation to changing demographics, culture, and development. The intent of the course is to familiarize you with today's higher education setting and strategies for enhancing these environments to maximize student learning and development. Throughout the course, attention will be paid to the impact of learning and development. Throughout the course, attention will be paid to the impact of the campus environment on diverse student populations and a variety of student groups.

EDH 5910 - Internship: Higher Ed Admin
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
Supervised experience in appropriate administrative offices. Permission of Instructor required. Offered every Fall and Spring Semester.

EDH 5915 - Internship in Student Personnel Administration
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
Supervised experience in appropriate student personnel administrative offices. Permission of instructor required.

EDH 5916 - Internship: College Teaching
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDH 5930 - Special Topics
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDH 5950 - Special Study for Written Comprehensive Exams
Credit(s): 0 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDH 5980 - Graduate Reading Course
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDH 6010 - Doctoral Residency
Credit(s): 0 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDH 6020 - Professional Seminar in Doctoral Studies in Higher Education
Credit(s): 1 Credit
This course introduces doctoral studies to beginning students by engaging in a full review of the doctoral process, writing for doctoral coursework, preparation for the dissertation, development of a curriculum vitae, and establishment of professional goals through the doctoral process.
EDI 6040 - Universal Design in Higher Education: Principles and Practices
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course introduces basic concepts, issues, principles, approaches, practices, beneficiaries, institutionalization, and resources regarding the application of universal design (UD) of instruction, technology, physical spaces and student services for making postsecondary educational products and environments welcoming to, accessible to, and usable by everyone, including students with disabilities.

EDI 6050 - Disability in Higher Education & Society
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This theory-to-practice course provides graduate students with a multidimensional understanding of disability, particularly as it intersects with higher education and student development. Focus will be on the social construct of disability and creating an inclusive educational environment.

EDI 6060 - Disability Administration in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This pragmatic course explores the field of disability education and students with disabilities in higher education as related to disability services administration. Students will engage in practical lessons from this discipline, experience disability administration roles and responsibilities, and explore ways to create access and inclusion in the higher education setting. Offered in spring.

EDI 6080 - Disability Social Justice Theory in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
A social justice approach to disability in higher education begins with the assumption that all faculty, staff, and students' abilities contribute to the mission of the institution regardless whether their bodies or psyches conform to majority norms. Yet, in higher education, this ideal of social justice is challenged by barriers, residing in the attitudinal, organizational, and physical aspects of the college or university, which limit all to succeed in achievement of goals and contributions to the mission. This course examines the various ways individuals with and without disabilities creates and sustains systems which limit the personal and professional experience of college faculty, staff and students with disabilities. In addition, the course will address how these barriers can be reduced or eliminated by all college stakeholders with and without disabilities.

EDI 6150 - Organization and Administration of Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Designed to improve the student’s ability to conceptualize the total field of administration through studies of administrative theory, behavior, processes, organization, and current research.

EDI 6350 - College Student Choice, Access, and Success
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course examines key theories and current research exploring access to higher education; college choice; and college student retention, persistence, and success. Drawing from relevant empirical and theoretical literature, students will develop a deeper understanding of the barriers to college access and success for today’s students. Special emphasis will be placed on examining college access and success through the lenses of race, class, gender, and ability. Students will apply their learnings by considering how to (re)design equity-informed interventions.

EDI 6450 - Policy Studies in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course introduces students to the study of higher education public policy formation, implementation, and evaluation in the U.S. Students will examine historical public policy actions in higher education, key theories of the policy process, and contemporary policy challenges in higher education. Additionally, students will be prepared to critically analyze higher education policies and advocate for specific alternatives.

EDI 6580 - Financial Admin in Higher Educ
Credit(s): 3 Credits
General introduction to the multiple aspects of financial administration in higher education including administrative organization budgeting and financial reporting, fund accounting, purchasing, management of endowment funds, loan funds.

EDI 6600 - Curriculum in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Survey of practices and problems in the development of curricula in American colleges and universities. Offered in spring.

EDI 6640 - Social Theory & Social Justice in Higher Education
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Exploration and analysis of social theories as they relate to attitudes, characteristics, and experiences within postsecondary contexts and institutional cultures.

EDI 6700 - College Teaching
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Critical analysis of practices, expectations, strategies, and responsibilities of the college teacher based on an analysis of the teaching-learning situation.

EDI 6925 - Higher Education Student Society
Credit(s): 0 Credits
Higher Education Student Society.

EDI 6930 - Special Topics
Credit(s): 3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDI 6950 - Special Study for Written Comprehensive Exams
Credit(s): 0 Credits

EDI 6960 - Project Guidance
Credit(s): 0-4 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDI 6970 - Research Topics in Higher Ed
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDI 6980 - Graduate Reading Course
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

EDI 6990 - Dissertation Research
Credit(s): 0-6 Credits (Repeatable for credit)