ISTD 2900 - Intercultural Seminar & Practicum

Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

This course develops and studies "intercultural awareness, cultural interaction, and problem solving in an international context." International Studies is the interdisciplinary analysis of global processes that shape international trends and lives of human beings throughout the world.

This course gives students a chance to further develop awareness of the methods and topics of International Studies through a broad, humanistic socio-political approach that will serve as a foundation for further international studies in numerous fields offered at Saint Louis University. Seminar-style instruction and discussion will be paired with a practicum element taking advantage of the course's unique format and structure.

ISTD 4560 - Nationalism and Civil War

Credit(s): 3 Credits

History shows that civil wars fought between ethnic or religious groups are bloodier and longer-lasting than nearly any other type of conflict. Yet, at the same time, most ethnic groups live in peace with one another, making war the exception. Why are "ethnic civil wars" so intractable? How can they be prevented or resolved? Is religious or ethnic nationalism incompatible with civic nationalism, or can competing sources of identity coexist peacefully? We address these questions by applying social science research to current and historical cases of civil war.
