SOC 4015 - Quantitative Research Methods
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course is designed to introduce students to quantitative skills, methodologies, and software necessary to analyze social science research questions and evaluate public policies. Students will learn the vocabulary associated with scientific thinking and research methods, data collection, data analysis, data presentation, and interpretation and discussion of analytical results. This is an introductory course in statistical analysis that covers the properties and characteristics of data and variables and presents both descriptive and inferential statistics.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 2000
Attributes: Anthropology Elective, Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4025 - Qualitative Research
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course introduces the major methodologies and techniques for conducting research into the human condition in its natural context. It includes discussion of the analysis of group behavior, beliefs, symbols, rituals, ceremonies, relate to technologies, and generally order of their natural world and control their societies.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 2000
Attributes: Anthropology Elective, Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4640 - Demography: Measuring and Modeling Population Process
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course covers beginning and intermediate demographic methods. This course consists of lectures, seminars, and labs. Topics to be covered include: Population Dynamics, Economic Dynamics, Social Dynamics, and Applied Demographic Methods and Policy.
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4650 - Introduction to GIS
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This class introduces concepts, science and theory of GIS with hands-on experiences. After successful completion of the course, students will be able to demonstrate fundamental techniques of geospatial analysis and mapping. Students may only apply credits towards their graduation requirements from one of the following courses: EAS-4170, BIOL-4170, or SOC-4650.
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4660 - Intermediate Geographic Information Systems
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course covers intermediate and advanced topics in GIS including remote sensing for GIS, geospatial statistics and GIS in biogeography. Students may only apply credits towards their graduation requirements from one of the following courses: EAS 4180, BIOL 4180, or SOC 4660.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 4650, EAS 4170, or BIOL 4170
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4670 - Spatial Demography: Applied Statistics for Spatial Data
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course covers intermediate and advanced topics in Spatial Statistics. This course consists of lectures, seminars, and labs. Topics to be covered include: Spatial Autocorrelation, Spatial Regression, Geographically Weighted Regression, and Gravity Models.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 4650
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4680 - Forensic GIS
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course teaches students how to apply spatial statistics and sociological theories to the study of crime and deviance in American cities. Topics to be covered include: hot spot mapping, journey to crime models, temporal and spatial patterns of crime, and risk terrain modeling.
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4700 - Applied Spatial Analysis for Social Sciences
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course covers advanced topics in demography, spatial statistics, and Geographic Information Science (GIS). Topics to be covered include: gravity models, spatial segregation, spatial inequality, spatial scaling, journey to crime models, risk terrain models, and hierarchal spatial models.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 4640; SOC 4650; SOC 4660
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4800 - Research Activity: Supervised
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
This course provides students with research experience under the guidance of a faculty member. Student involvement in various components of the faculty member's research project(s) is the typical form. The course provides competitive advantages for students interested in applying to graduate schools.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 2000
Attributes: Anthropology Elective, Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4840 - Sociology Capstone
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Provides the opportunity for students to synthesize the knowledge and skills they have gained from previous courses. In the process of examining conventional common sense assumptions, students are encouraged to think critically and deeply about themselves and the world in which they live.
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4910 - Internship
Credit(s): 1-6 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
SOC 4930 - Special Topics
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
Students are introduced to key issues involved in sociological research.
Attributes: Anthropology Elective, Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4980 - Advanced Independent Study
Credit(s): 1-6 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
Attributes: Anthropology Elective, Social Science Req (A&S)

SOC 4990 - Departmental Honors Thesis
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable up to 6 credits)
An independent research project under a thesis director and a faculty committee. This course is repeatable up to 6 credits. Honors thesis course in the penultimate semester may provide variable credits for research work preparatory to the completion of the thesis. To qualify to do a Departmental Honors Thesis a student must first meet qualifying standards.
Attributes: Social Science Req (A&S)
This course will examine the issues of racial, ethnic, and cultural minority groups in the U.S. and abroad from historical, economic, political, and sociological perspectives. Students will learn theoretical perspectives to address issues relevant to race and ethnic relations. The course will use a seminar format which will require students’ active involvement in presentations and discussion.
SOC 5800 - Survey Design & Sampling
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course offers basic knowledge and skills of survey methods so that students will be able to apply various techniques for data collection and analysis. During the course, students will learn basic proposal development, instrument preparation, data collection and analysis, and presentation of the results, through hands-on practice. Students are expected to write publishable/presentable manuscripts as a term paper.
Attributes: Social Work PhD Methods

SOC 5850 - Policy Evaluation and Assessment
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course will provide students with an understanding of the complexity and scope of policy evaluation and analysis. Students will become familiar with the concepts, methods, and applications of evaluation research. Students will also develop a toolkit to design traditional and cutting-edge evaluation methodology and analysis.
Attributes: Social Work PhD Specilization

SOC 5910 - Criminal Justice Internship
Credit(s): 3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
For students who do not have extensive criminal justice work experience, this internship will expose them to the operations of a criminal justice organization, and they will have the opportunity to examine a policy issue and develop alternative approaches to resolving the identified problem.

SOC 5930 - Special Topics
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

SOC 5970 - Research Topics
Credit(s): 3 Credits
Work specifically with a faculty member in an area of interest that results in a prepared grant proposal or a submission of an article to a professional journal.

SOC 5980 - Graduate Reading Course
Credit(s): 1-3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
To prepare for comprehensives or to do more in-depth study of a specific criminal justice area.

SOC 5990 - Thesis Research
Credit(s): 0-6 Credits (Repeatable for credit)

SOC 6100 - Regression Analysis & Non-linear Models
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course offers advanced knowledge and skills of multiple regression analysis, logistic regressions, log-linear and logit models so that students will be able to apply various techniques for data analysis. Students are encouraged to use their own data for course assignments. Students will develop a draft of a publishable/presentable manuscript as a term paper.
Prerequisite(s): SOC 5050
Attributes: Social Work PhD Methods

SOC 6225 - Urban Community Development
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course has three goals: introducing students to the history of community development efforts in the U.S.; assessing the policy goals of these efforts; and reviewing relevant research on this subject. The redevelopment of St. Louis receives special attention. Persons who know about the city’s redevelopment present guest lectures.

SOC 6250 - Poverty, Inequality and Public Policy
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course provides a multidisciplinary framework to understand the theories and mechanisms that contribute to poverty and inequality in the U.S. The course will also provide a history of anti-poverty policies interventions and introduce current state of knowledge on policies that work at the national, state, city, and neighborhood level.

SOC 6275 - Health and Social Sciences
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course surveys topics in health & the social sciences, stressing social science concepts, principles, scientific reasoning, problem solving, the design and interpretation of research as well as data based and statistical reasoning. Offered every two years.

SOC 6320 - Organization Theory & Behavior
Credit(s): 3 Credits
This course will provide a general focus on theories that provide insights into organizational life. Emphasis is given to public bureaucracies. Topics include motivational theory, management behavior and policy evaluation.

SOC 6930 - Special Topics
Credit(s): 3 Credits (Repeatable for credit)
